Secretary Wilson says one of the most important problems presented to his de-partment for solution is found in the denuded pine forests of Michigan, where a great area of stump land is lying unproductive and unused. Mr. Wilson will devote attention to the development of this terri-tory and predicts that eventually it will yield handsome returns when used for beet-

MISSOURI WOMAN IN OFFICE PREFERS HOME TO POLITICS.

Mrs. Glessner Moore Brady, Circuit Clerk of Vernon County, Says That She Will Be Glad When Her Term Has Expired, Although She Has Been Successful-Visits St. Louis on Return From Vacation in Kentucky and Dispels Official Cares by Seeing Sights of the City.

MRS. GLESSNER MOORE BRADY, Of Nevada, Mo., Circuit Clerk of Vernon County, the only woman holding political office

Mrs. Glessner Moore Brady, Circuit Clerk | vaudeville, and have seen almost everyof Vernon County, whose home is in Nevada, Mo., is in the city, visiting friends, and stopping at No. 3542 Pine street. Mrs.

Brady has been here several days and expects to remain a week longer.

Mrs. Brady, who bears the distinction of being the only woman who has ever held Delegates will hear citizens on the street a political office in Missouri, is young, of railway license tax. There is a delightful absence o everything even remotely suggestive of the female politician in her manner and appearance, and those disagreeable mental and physical traits of the typical woman suffragist which one unconsciously associates with an officeholding woman are noticeably lacking. Mrs. Brady impresses one as being just a natural, "womanly" woman, and she quickly confirms this impression by her conversation. She will talk of the weather, the An Omaha man gave up his wife and drama, literature, fashions and anything

"I am not a politician," she says, "and really I detest politics, although I have a ill have visited every congressional district | great many close friends among the Dem before the close of to-day. In a speech at ocratic politicians. I shall be glad to get out of politics when my term expires, January 1 next, although, to tell the truth, 1 have never really been in politics. I don't believe in woman suffrage and don't believe women should dabble in affairs of government. I believe woman's proper sphere is the home.

"My appointment and election to the office of Circuit Clerk came about through a peculiar combination of circumstances. My husband, Henry C. Brady, had been elected to the office, but a few months after his election his lungs affected him so that the confinement was too much for him, I helped him out with the work, and in course of time I became very familiar with the routine. When his physician ordered him to Arizona, I continued to do the work, with the help of his assistant. He died after two years of his term had expired, and at the solicitation of my friends Governor Stephens appointed me to fill out his unexpired term. "The Governor is a close friend of our family, and it was partly, I suppose, through personal friendship that he gave me the appointment. It was a high honor, and I thoroughly appreciated it, as I was the first woman thus honored with a political office in this State, A month later the Governor turned down a monster petition for the appointment of another woman to office in another part of the State, and I then appreciated my appointment still

POLITICS ARE INTERESTING WHEN ONE IS A CANDIDATE.

"I was in the race, and I didn't want to be beaten then. You know, of course, I didn't get out and make speeches like the men, but I went around the country stores and spoke to the proprietors, and called on their wives, and in that way made a canvass. Of course, it was an easy way, because I have a large acquaintance in the county, and as I had shown my ability to run the office I hadn't much trouble getting promises of support. I got twenty out of the twenty-three townships, and all the wards of Nevada, and my three opponents, seeing themselves hopelessly distanced, withdrew from the race in the convention, I was elected by the largest majority ever given a candidate in the county, as many of my

Retailers and Consumers Have Not Yet Felt Effects of Decrease.

The meat situation in St. Louis has improved materially within the last month, and the wholesale price of beef is now 20 to 25 per cent lower than at that time. The retailer has not begun to feel the effects as yet, and the consumer will be a still longer time, the packers say, in realizing that meat is gradually coming within their easy reach.

Bountiful crops and large consignments of cattle are said to be responsible for the reduction of prices. Thomas W. Crouch, president of the St. Louis Dressed Beef and Provision Company, in accounting for the change, said that last year, on account of the drought and the resultant scarcity of feed, the Western cattle were poor and scarce, and prices went up. This year, owing to the bountiful crops, large herds of well-fed cattle are coming in, and a decrease in the price is the result.

President's Party Will Have Visited Every Congressional District in Maine Before the Close of To-Day.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL. Augusta, Me., Aug. 26.-President Roose velt arrived here to-night, and is the guest of Governor Hill, who lives in the house once owned by James G. Blaine, The President made a brief speech from the porch and then retired to rest, in preparation for another hard day's speech-making to-morrow.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL Portland, Me., Aug. 26.-From Boston, through New Hampshire, President Rouse-velt came to-day to this city, and after a stay here of less than three hours, departed for Lewiston.

Before to-morrow night he will have visited every congressional district in the State, the principal town in each district, and the homes of each of the United States Senators from Maine.

In his speech at Haverhill, Mass., this morning, the home of Secretary of the Navy Moody, the president made an earnest plea for a strong and ever efficient navy, which, ie asserted, is the nation's chief defense, His speech here this afternoon was made by warm words of praise for Thomas Brackett Reed and his work in Congress.

A pleasant feature of the day was a visit to Dover, N. H., the first time the town has ever entertained a President of the United States, though it was 144 years old when the Declaration of Independence was May's Deeds in Three Great Crises.

In three great crises in our history during the Nineteenth Century—in the War of 1812, in the Civil War and again in the Spanish War—the navy rendered to the nation services of literally incalculable worth.

In the Civil War we had to meet antagonists even more prepared at sea than we were. On both the other occasions were encountered foreign foes, and the fighting was done entirely by ships will long in navance and by officers and crews who had been trained during years of sea service for the supreme day when their qualities were put to the final test.

It was this prepareddess which was the true for the supreme day when their qualities were put to the final test.

It was this preparedsess which was the true secret of the encomous difference in efficiency between our navy and that of the Spanish nation. There was no lack of courage and devotion among the Spanish's but on our side, in addition to the courage and devotion, there was also that training which comes only as the result of lears of thorough and palinstaking practice.

Annapolis is, with the sole exception of its ester academy at West Point, the most typically lemosratic and American school of learning and reparation that there is in the entire country. There each man enters on his merits, stands on his merits and graduates into a service where only his merit will enable him to be of value.

conly his merit will enable him to be of value.

Eulisted Men of Fine Type.

The enlisted men are of fine type, as they needs must be to do their work well, and out of the fine material thus provided the finished man-of-warman is evolved by years of sea service.

It is impossible, after the outbreak of war, to improvise either the ships or the men of a navy. The shipbuilders and gunmakers must keep ever en the alert, so that no rivais pass them by, and the officers and enlisted men on board the ships must, in their turn, by the exercise of unstagging and intelligent zeal, keep themselves fit to get the best use out of the weapons of war intrusted to their care.

The instrument is always important, but the man who uses it is more important still.

We must constantly endeavor to perfect our navy in all its duties in time a seaway and marksmanship with the great guns, in battle the only shots that count are those that hit, and marksmanship is a matter of long practice and of intelligent reasoning.

A navy's efficiency in a war depends mainly upon its preparations at the outset of that war. We are not to be excused as a nation if there is not such preparedness of our navy.

No nation has a right to undertake a big task unless it is prepared to do it in masterful and effective style, it would be an unclorable humiliation for us to embark on such a course of action as followed from our declaration of war with Spein, and not make good our words by deeds—not be ready to prove ou truth by our endeavor whenever the need calls.

Warship Must Be Kept in Use. good work of building up the navy must without ceasing. The modern warship can-ith advantage be allowed to rust in disuse. no on without ceasing. The modern warship cansot with advantage of allowed to rust in disuse.
It must be used in active service, even in time of peace. This means that there must be a constant replacement of the ineffective by the efective. The work of building up and keeping up um many is, therefore, one which needs our onstant and unflagging vigilance.
(for many is now efficient, but we must be consent with no ordinary degree of efficiency. Every effort must be made to bring it nearer to perection. fection.

In making such effort, the prime factor is to have at the head of the navy such an official as your fellow townsman, Mr. Moody; and the next is to bring home to our people as a whole the need of therough and ample preparation in advance; this preparation to take the form, not only of continually building ships, but of keeping those ships in commission under conditions which will develop the highest degree of efficiency in the officers and enlisted men abourd them.

At Portland this afternoon, the President Praise for Thomas B. Reed.

I wish to say a word to you in recognition of great service rendered, not only to all our ountry, but to the entire people of democratic overnment throughout the world, by one of your country, but to the entire people of democratic government throughout the world, by one of your citizens.

The best institutions are no good if they won't work. If you build the handsomest engine and it work go, its unefulness would be limited.

Well, that is just about the way the Congress had become at the time when Thomas Brackett Reed was elected Speaker.

We had all the machinery, but it did not work. That was the trouble, and you had to find some powerful man who would disregard the storm of obloquy sure to be aroused by what he did to get it to work. Such a man was found when Tom Reed was made Speaker.

Now, we may differ among ourselves as to what course the Government should follow, but if we possess any intelligence we must be a unit. If government cannot go on, it is no government. If the Legislature cannot enact laws, then there is no use of misnaming it a legislative body, and if, according to principle, the majority is to rule, some method by which it can rule must be provided.

Government by the majority in Congress had practically come to a stop when Tom Reed became Speaker.

Mr. Reed, at the cost of infinite labor, at the coat of flercest attack, succeeded in restoring that old principle, and now through Congress we can do as well or ill according as the people demand, but at any rate we can do something. We will be that much ahead, and we owe it more than to any other one man to your fellow citizen, Mr. Reed.

And it is a great thing for any man to be shie to feel that in some one crisis he left his mark deeply scored for good in the history of his country, and Tom Reed has the right to that feeling.

Soldlers and Good Citizens, Too.

Soldiers and Good Citizens, Too.

Soldiers and Good Citizens, Too.

Now a word or two more. I was greeted here not only by your Mayor, not only by other men standing high, but by you, General (turning to General Joshua L. Chamberlain), to whom it was given, at the supreme moment of the war, to win the supreme reward of a soldier. All honor to the man-and may we keep ourselves from envying because to him came the supreme good fortune of winning the medal of bonor for mighty deeds done in the mightlest hattle that the Nineteenth Century saw—Gettysburg.

I see everywhere I stop, men who, in the times that tried the nation's worth, rose level to the nation's need and offered up life gladly to the nation's altar, the men who fought in the great Civil War from '61 to '65.

They taught us much by their life in war time, and they have taught us as much by their life ever since. They were solders when we needed soldiers, and they were of the very best kind; and when the need was for citizenship in civil life they showed us they could give the highest kind of citizenship.

ONCE FAVORITE ACTRESS HAS BEEN TAKEN HOME TO DIE.

Georgia Cayvan Is Suffering From a Hopeless Case of Acute Mania and Is Totally Blind-Her Beauty and Charm, a Decade Ago, Attracted Great Crowds to the Old Lyceum Theater, New York.

GEORGIA CAYVAN.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL New York, Aug. 28.-Almost at death's door from a hopeless case of acute mania. Georgia Cayvan, a decade ago one of America's favorite actresses, whose beauty and charm nightly filled the old Lyccum Theater, has been removed from the Sanford Hall

She is now with her sister, Miss Alice W. Cayvan, at New Dorchester, Mass. It was the loving not of the sister of the actress and the last hope of her family that her shattered senses might be in part restored by removal to the home of her childhood, which was spent in the pretty Missachusetts town in the vicinity of Boston, and so it was done.

The sister, who has felt the greatest solicitude for Miss Cayvan, who is said to be in a decline, called for her at Sauford Hall with a carriage and the removal to a train was soon accomplished.

Although Miss Cayvan's condition is considered hopeless by her relatives, they seek the consolation of having her die in their old home and surrounded by her childhood friends

Shortly after entering the sanitarium Georgia Cayvan was stricken blind and has never been rational for periods of more than a few minutes. In her delirium she has attacked her nurses and other patients, and on several occasions smashed all the furniture n her ward.

When she was removed late last Sunder night she bitterly fought the four attendants who conducted her to a closed carriage that was waiting. Her shricks aroused the whole neighborhood.

BURT CHARGED WITH FALSE IMPRISONMENT.

President of Union Pacific Arrested on a Charge Preferred by Men Imported by Railroad.

WERE LOCKED IN THE CARS.

Wanted to Leave When They Learned a Strike Was in Progress, They Assert, but Were Not Permitted to Do So.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL. Omaha, Neb., 23.-President Horace G. Burt of the Union Pacific Rafiroad walked into the police station to-day, where he was placed under agreet on the charge of fulse imprisonment, preferred against him by ten men, whom the Union Pacific had imported into Omana from Indianapolis, to become employes in the shops in the place of strikers. Warrants for the arrest of Mr. Burt and of the Union Pacific, were issued by Judge Berka this morning upon the complaints of these ten men. An officer accompanied Mr. Burt to the station, where the warrants were served. President Burt gave bond of $1,000, and was released, to appear in Police Court this morning. According to the story told by the men. they were entired away from their homes and jobs they already held by Agent Arnett, to whom they state they gave $5 as an application fee for work here. Arnett assured them that there was no strike on the Union Arriving at Council Bluffs Sunday morning the party was surprised to find the car doors locked on them and armed guards on the platforms posted at the doors warning them not to leave, as the strikers would assault them. They were thus kept under lock and key till the car was switched into the shop yards on this side of the river and then they were sent to the shop's hotel for breakfast. The men sought at once to leave, but they could not get their baggage checks, When they did get them they consulted the County Attorney, who told them he could do nothing about the money collected from them in Indianapolis, but that he would cheerfully issue complaints against President Burt on the charge of false imprisonment. The men then went to President Burt and laid the case before him. He offered them transportation to Chicago. Eight of the men accepted this. The others will pick up what work they can here and make a strong fight for redress. The crime allaged against the officers is a misdemeanor, and is punishable by a fine of $100 to $500 or a term of imprisonment of not more than one year on each count.

S. W. Arnett, general employment agent
